Now is the season when the seductive mortgage gets in its best lies.
They will be paid next fall.

A lady book agent was in Clinton last week. Of course such a combination was inevitable.

The better opinion now is that Mr.
Paine did not mean anything, by better more than to show how he could be elected. Too im-much without good discipline in the school; yet the ability to govern others cannot be acquired by one who has not learned to control himself at all times and under all circumstances. The first duty of the teacher there is to have a perfect control over his own feelings and passions.

No indications of anger should ever be visible in his countenance; no expressions indicative of the loss of self-possession should be under any circumstances be permitted to escape his lips. He must finally attempt to govern his pupils, seek with far more diligence and earnestness to teach subordination to truth than to his own individual authority. Then if we would become good teachers we must study ourselves and see if we have the ability to convey information to our pupils, the power to deal justly, with them, the power to govern them and ourselves, and to lead them for the vocation. It is not enough to know things ourselves; we must have the power of imparting, conveying what we know to others. Study what you mean to teach and become proficient in it.
Know what you pretend to know, do not offer to teach and are two subjects concerning which our ignorance is painfully manifest—the long expected European war and the doings of Congress.

Whether there is going to be any war or whether Congress is going to do anything, is just finding out.

The National Democratic Convention will meet in St. Louis on the 5th of June. The North Carolina Democratic State convention will be held in Raleigh on the 30th of May. Politics will therefore soon begin to agitate the minds of our people.

Harmony and organization is needed in the party in this State. The people need only to be impressed with the supreme importance of maintaining Democratic supremacy in this State, to insure victory. Our people are as well governed and the taxes are as low as in any state in the Union and there is absolutely no reason why any one should desire to turn the state over to Republican rule.

Before the war the general government did not tax anything. Tariff duties were levied but direct taxation was not.

upon whiskey and tobacco and Oleomargarine and it is proposed to tax cotton seed. Where will the thing stop? The first departure from principle is dangerous. It always has been, and is now, sound Democratic doctrine to deny the right of the general government to levy direct or excise taxes.

THE SUCCESSFUL TEACHERS.
Miss Rebecca E. Brock.

The interest that is now being taken in education marks a new era in the history of our State, and not only with us, but is manifesting itself with popular approval throughout our common country, and is sending forth a penetrating light that bids fair to dispel the dark clouds of ignorance that have so enshrouded us as a people, and held us back in the race of life, and so obscured our vision that we have been unable to appreciate or enjoy the beautiful in-nature around us, or to live in the full fruition of pleasure or usefulness.

What was the intention of the great Creator?

Let there be light," was one of the first edicts sent forth, and what was the result? Light came, and the world of day as he comes from his resting place.

Let the human race be enlightened, and what was the result?

Education I do not mean the acquisition of what is laid down in books, but to look upon knowledge as auxiliaries in the expansion of our own thoughts so that we may be able to drink deeply of the enlightening waters that flow from the Pleiades Spring. No one can accomplish much in this life as an imitator.

Originality is always appreciated and it is the duty of the teacher to impress upon the minds of his pupils to gather well the thoughts of others and digest them fully, and then to think for themselves, so that they can be able to hold fast to that which is good. Then if we would have the interest in education to increase we must have good teachers. Teachers whose hearts are not in their work have and have not a love for teaching will never be "Successful Teachers," neither will education be much cared for in communities where they are employed. We must have good teachers in our common schools if we would be a prosperous people. If a teacher would be "successful," he must seem and be superior to his pupils at all times. In the school room and out of it he must make them believe that he is better than they. Not that he knows everything or is more learned than other men are but that he is really and truly more honest, punctual and loving—in short that he is in every quality which makes the true man a model for all around him. Thus and only thus can he attain to that superiority which makes him a teacher beloved, respected, and obeyed by all the little minds, hearts, and wills for his labors. No teacher can do in a word the grand object of school life is attained. Hence it becomes a matter of the first importance, on the part of every teacher who would succeed, to learn the art of Inspiration. As has been fittingly said "as the teacher is, so is the school." A noisy teacher makes a noisy school; a rude and clownish teacher imparts much of the spirit of his rudeness to his pupils. Life, energy and enthusiasm on the part of the teacher serve to awaken corresponding life and energy on the part of all who come under his charge, and inspiration is what all students need more than help.

The Successful Teacher is one whose heart throbs with tenderness and emotion; a enthusiasm speaks out in his voice, it shines from his eye and infuses itself through the whole school.
This animating influence of the live, or successful, teacher is not confined to the school room, but manifests itself in the families of the neighborhood. In a word the enthusiasm of the "Successful Teacher" has a power for good which no one can estimate. It brings order out of confusion, light out of darkness, and awakens to activity, the slumbering powers of the intellect.

There are two things which have better schools, a larger attendance, and more general interest manifested in the cause of popular education. And in conclusion permit it to be said, that under the influence of a successful teacher, the moral and religious atmosphere of the Bible will prevail.
It should clothe every thought, direct every motive, and inspire every action. And, in so far as this influence is felt the happiest results are realized.

COLORED BOY DOWN A CHIMNEY.
[Charlotte Chronicle.]
Yesterday afternoon the messenger boys of the Western Union Telegraph company, regardless of window glass and back fences, were indulging in a game of foot ball in the lot in rear of the Central Hotel. One of the boys distinguished himself by kicking the ball high into the air, and in descending, the ball went straight down the chimney of Mr. Rosdiger's beer saloon. The saloon has been closed up since January 1st, and the boys were seriously distressed about the ways and means of recovering their cherished ball. While they were deliberating, a little darkey came up and they explained the situation to him. His eyes brightened at the talk proceeded, and when he got the ball for the paltry consideration of 25 cents, the boys made up the purse and urged him on. The boy made his way to the roof of the building and climbed to the top of the chimney. He perched himself on the chimney top for a moment and then disappeared down the chimney. The boys waited patiently for half an hour, but their adventurous messenger failed to appear.

They finally became alarmed and on going close to the chimney they heard the boy uttering half-mothered cries.

It was evident that the boy was fastened in the chimney, and the news spread so rapidly that in less than ten minutes a crowd of at least 600 people was gathered in the lot.
Soundings were made and the boy was located in a flue about ten feet from the ground. An effort was made to rescue him by means of a rope lowered down the chimney, but it failed, and it was not until Mr. A.
Shorter Caldwell mounted a ladder and knocked a big hole in the chimney that the boy was rescued. He was almost suffocated, and was so weak that he could scarcely stand. The scene when he emerged from the hole in the chimney was a most ludicrous one. He was drawn out headfirst, and it was almost impossible to turn him around.

We say this straight: The man who tries to induce the Democratic party of North Carolina to retire from its well established position on the internal revenue, is an enemy in disguise—it were better that he should go over to the Republicans; he would do us less harm. He who believes that the party can change front on this question and live, is an ignoramus about North Carolina politics—hesitant to know the people. You may call it expediency, or what not, but if the party serves one hair's breadth from its all-time position on this question, it is gone. You can just put that in your pipe and smoke it. It is a question of consistency and victory on the one hand, and of bad faith and defeat on the other. If the Democratic party proves false to the people on this vital question, it will take from election day till Christmas to count the majority against it. The Democratic party will not do it.

Major McClannay, as a member of the Committee on Agriculture, is tax cotton seed oil. The bill is clearly in the interests of the land manufacturers of the north and west and discriminates against the cotton seed industries of the south. He says these land manufacturers press out ten per cent. of oil and sell the comparatively worthless refuse as genuine lard. Nearly all the lard placed on the market is adulterated.

Cotton seed oil is healthier, cheaper and purer. It is used largely as salad oil and many enterprising Yankees now bottle it, put a foreign label on and sell it at ten times its cost, for genuine Italian olive oil. In time, this cotton seed oil will become a source of great revenue to our people. Major McClannay will spare no pains to prevent any legislation which will injure this important product. He says all such measures are ultimately detrimental. He was once in favor of the olive oil argument, but would now vote to repeal it.

THE PROHIBITIONISTS AGAINST IT.
Senator Brown presented to the United States senate on Thursday, a petition signed by more than a thousand members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, urging the absolute and unconditional repeal of the internal revenue laws.

This petition was headed by Mrs. J. H. H. and of the temperance movement in that state and bore the names of many prominent women workers in the cause of prohibition in Georgia. The petition sets forth the evils of the internal revenue laws, and says that their existence will be an everlasting obstruction in the way of prohibition.

The Daughter of a Fool.
Last Sunday week at Matthews, Mr. James Spittle and Miss Stanley Presley were united in the bonds of matrimony by Rev. J. W. Abernethy.

The bride is not yet twelve years old and her mother, before giving her consent to the union, stipulated that the bridegroom must continue sending her to school. To this Mr. S. agreed, and the young wife will not have to forego the pleasure of playing with the other children.—Mon-
